NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Alone in death, the body of 26-year-old John Warde, who thrilled tens of thousands of spectators nearly 11 hours yesterday before he leaped to death from the 17th floor of the Gotham Hotel, lay in an East Side funeral parlor today.

While morbid throngs still gaped at the 18-inch perch where Warde sulked throughout yesterday afternoon and evening, or pointed to the crimson-hued pavement where his body struck, officials at the funeral parlors said no one had called to look at the shattered remains.

They said they had received no instructions as to disposition.

Police kept the crowds moving, but passersby picked up fragments of broken glass from the hotel marquee, which was hit a glancing blow by Warde's hurtling descent.

"Here's my souvenir!" one of them exclaimed proudly.

The piece of glass had a reddish tinge.

No Rubber Stamps In Texas

THE Texas primary election results are chiefly significant because they show NO ABDICATION OF VOTERS' SOVEREIGNTY.

Chairman Hatton Summers, of the House Judiciary Committee, whose defeat was desired by some New Dealers because of his courageous stand against the Supreme Court Packing bill, the Reorganization bill and other New Deal measures, was a winner in his Texas district.

Representative Maury Maverick, who had the New Deal blessing, was beaten by Paul Kilday who said he would "never be known as a rubber stamp congressman."

Representative W. D. McFarlane, "my old friend," as President Roosevelt called him, was defeated by Ed Gossett.

Plainly, in Texas at least, it conveys no life tenure in office upon a congressman to "go along" with the New Deal.

And as plainly, it is no POLITICAL DEATH WARRANT to oppose the New Deal when it is wrong.

The effect should be far-reaching in the next Congress.

It ought to give other congressmen the COURAGE OF THEIR CONVICTIONS.

It ought to go far toward restoring to Congress its constitutional status as a legislative body representative of the people and INDEPENDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH OF THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.

It is to be hoped that in other states, as in Texas, the people will reserve to themselves the right to do THEIR OWN PURGING.

House Faces Deal 'Purge'

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Electioneering House members, whose campaigns generally have been overshadowed by senatorial races, are in the midst of some hot primary battles of their own.

Labor's Nonpartisan League, political arm of the CIO, is leading the assault against the rules committee bloc that held up action on wage-hour legislation for months.

The league included five rules committee Democrats in a blacklist of House members whose records, it said, called for opposition from labor. Two of these, Clark of North Carolina and Dies of Texas, already have obtained renomination. A third, Lewis of Colorado, was chosen by a district Democratic assembly for renomination without opposition.

FOUGHT WAGE BILL

The other two, Smith of Virginia and Cox of Georgia, are under fire from candidates who are making an issue of administration support.

Cox is running against W. Jewel Crowe, who is friendly to New Deal objectives. Cox has voted against the administration on several occasions, and was one of the leaders in the fight against the wage-hour bill.

Smith, who has a similar record, is having his first primary opposition since he entered Congress in 1931. William E. Dodd, Jr., son of the former ambassador to Germany, is running on a 100 per cent New Deal platform, and has assailed Smith as reactionary.

O'CONNOR UNDER FIRE

In New York city, Chairman O'Connor of the rules committee also has incurred the enmity of such Roosevelt men as Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia. Tammany Hall has picked O'Connor for renomination, and some Republicans have talked of putting him on their ticket, too.

Although O'Connor steered most Roosevelt legislation through the rules committee, he incurred the opposition of New Dealers by leading the successful fight against the government reorganization bill.

With the backing of LaGuardia and Alex Rose, executive head of the American Labor Party, Byrnes MacDonald has announced his candidacy against O'Connor.

A consistent Democratic opponent of Roosevelt legislation, Representative Lamneck of Ohio has four competitors in next month's primary.

Ousted Quincy Mayor Runs Again

Former Mayor Charles A. Rose of Quincy, who held that seat for only three months in 1935 when he was ousted by the Supreme Court for violation of the corrupt practices act, today announced he would again be a mayoralty candidate at the December elections.

He will run against Mayor Thomas S. Burge, who succeeded him after the 1935 court ouster proceedings.

British Ship Sunk in Spain

MADRID, July 27 (AP)—The British cargo ship Dellwyn was sunk in the Port of Gandia by a seaplane which attacked at dawn.

It was the second attack on the 1451-ton ship in three days. Two bombs were dropped near her on Monday, but they did not explode.

The plane dropped five bombs in today's attack, two of them hitting the Dellwyn. One tore a big hole below the water line, the other crashed through the deck.

There were no casualties. The Gandia harbor master's secretary said the vessel was not completely submerged but was resting on the shallow bottom of the harbor.

The attack occurred while the Dellwyn was unloading a cargo of coal.

The Dellwyn was the first British ship sunk in Spanish waters since the Farham went down in Alicante harbor just a month ago. The attacker was believed to be one of two seaplanes well known to British shipping along the Mediterranean coast—"Zapatoles" ("big shoes"), so called because of its large pontoons, or "The Turkey," which usually flies low and heavily.

LONDON, July 27 (AP)—An official of Angel and Son Company of Cardiff, owners of the 1480-ton cargo ship Dellwyn sunk in Spain, said today the freighter was discharging a cargo of coal in Gandia and conforming to all regulations of the international non-intervention in Spain scheme. More than 60 British ships have been bombed in Spain since the outbreak of the Spanish war more than two years ago.

Jap-Soviet Row Grows

TOKYO, July 27 (INS)—Press reports of two new clashes on the Siberian-Manchukuo frontier today reawakened warlike tension between Japan and Soviet Russia, hindering recent moves toward conciliation of the two major rivals in the Far East.

In both of the latest incidents—one of them involving a pitched battle lasting five hours—the Japanese sources charged invasion by Soviet troops at Japanese-controlled Manchukuo soil.

Insurgents Deny Losses

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), July 27 (AP)—Government troops were reported today to have driven within three miles of insurgent headquarters at Gandesa in a sudden offensive along the Ebro river front in eastern Spain.

Insurgent general headquarters insisted only a few opposing troops had crossed the Ebro, and that those were annihilated.

Jap Bombing Toll 16,532

LONDON, July 27 (INS)—Japanese air raids in China have killed 16,532 civilian men, women and children since the Sino-Japanese hostilities began, according to official Chinese statistics, the London Daily Express Telegraph reported today from Hong Kong.

War Bombing Protest Grows La Guardia In Message

Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, July 27—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia declared today that the people of the United States were wholeheartedly opposed to the killing of civilians in war after mayors of 33 American cities joined him in protesting the bombardment of "open" cities in China and Spain.

The mayors' protest has been forwarded by LaGuardia to the world conference for action on the bombardment of open towns and the restoration of peace now in progress at Paris.

It was addressed to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, last year's Nobel peace prize winner and Pierre Cot, former French minister for air, the co-presidents of the conference.

LaGuardia on his own initiative messaged the American mayors when he was requested by the organizer of the Paris conference to join with the mayors of 200 French towns and such large European cities as London, Liverpool, Manchester,

MAYOR LAGUARDIA

Oslo and Geneva in denouncing the aerial bombings.

The text of the protest signed by the 34 American mayors, including the chief magistrates of such large cities as Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, New Orleans and Minneapolis, follows:

"We wish to raise our voices in world-wide protest against ruthless bombings of open towns. As chief executives of American cities we express our horror and indignation against the barbarous slaughter of helpless women and children.

"Fully realizing the danger implicit in this unparalleled situation, we extend our fullest sympathy and join in your protest and pledge support to all efforts to halt these brutalities before they overwhelm us all."

Franco Asks Wider Probe

LONDON, July 27 (AP)—The House of Commons was told today that the British government was considering a proposal from Insurgent Generalissimo Franco for widening the scope of the British plan for a commission to investigate bombings of civilian centers in Spain.

Richard A. Butler, undersecretary, who disclosed the proposal, said the insurgent authorities wanted the investigations to "include assassinations and barbarities not connected with air raids."

Previously the foreign office announced that Franco had accepted in principle Britain's plan for a two-man British commission.

Butler said Britain hoped for an early reply from the Spanish government, which has not yet accepted the plan.

Son James Resting at Campobello

CAMPOBELLO, N. B., July 27—The summer estate of President Roosevelt here today served his son, James, as a convalescent home after the latter's recent treatment for gastric trouble at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.

He is accompanied on his visit by his wife, the former Betsy Cushing of Boston, and by his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt.

They came here from his own summer residence at Little Boar's Head, North Hampton, N. H., where his children, Sarah Delano and Kathryn, still remain.

Two Department of Justice agents have been assigned to guard the party during the undetermined length of their visit here.

She 'Never Liked Him' So Sues

SALEM, July 27—She married him but she "never liked him," an attractive, young, blonde wife and mother testified today in probate court in her contested suit for divorce after nine years.

What she objected to principally, according to Mrs. Ann Carlstrom, of Lawrence, was the freedom with which her husband, John Carlstrom, also Lawrence, used his fists on her.

But one day, despite the bloody nose she said he had inflicted on her, she had the last laugh.

Carlstrom, she testified, fractured two fingers when he punched her on July 7, 1933, when she objected to actions of his friends at a party they had given.

An unidentified man entered the case in her cross-examination, Judge John V. Phelan ruling that the man should not be named.

She denied, however, that the husband, in the presence of her sister, had accused his wife of making a statement to him that she had had improper relations with the mystery man.

Also she denied that her sister told her she "ought to stop" and that her husband, when Carlstrom, Mrs. Carlstrom and the man were out riding together, warned his wife and the man not to see each other again.

Malden Torch Victim Saved

While repairing a water pipe a youth barely escaped death in a Malden store today when a gasoline torch tipped over and surrounded him with a pool of flame.

Screaming, George Frost, 21, of Epsum, N. H., ran from the store at 43 Pine street. His flaming clothes were extinguished by passers-by.

The store is owned by Mrs. Naomi Frost, the youth's grandmother. Fire loss was set at $1000.

Pin in Throat Kills Baby

Johnny Profit, Jr., the 18-months-old boy who laughed at death during a dramatic race from Fitchburg to Boston, died at Massachusetts General Hospital today.

Though choked by an open safety pin in his throat, Johnny waved "bye bye" to State Trooper Michael Shea and smiled at photographers and nurses as his mother carried him into the hospital.

But despite every effort of medical science to dislodge the pin and save his life, brave little Johnny quietly passed away at 2 a. m.

The heart-broken mother revealed that the child swallowed the pin in spite of her efforts to wrest it from him.

BOSTON GREETSHIRLEY FRIDAY

She's been adored in New York and adored in Bermuda, but now the world's most famous little girl is going to do what she's been most eager to do—view the most famous historical places in American history.

Shirley Temple is coming to Boston this week-end, her representatives in New York let it be known today.

The chubby film star it was learned, has pestered her mother and father to take her to Boston, so that she could see all the places she has read about in her school books.

A few weeks ago it was planned to bring her here, but the program was changed and Shirley went instead to Bermuda, to break her vacation trip with a period of rest on the island, away from big-city crowds.

Now she is back again and is eagerly awaiting Friday evening, when she expects to arrive in Boston and begin an excited week-end of sightseeing.

Shirley wants to see Paul Revere's home in the North End, the Old North Church, from where the lanterns were hung; she wants to ride over the route of his midnight ride, and she wants to see where the Battle of Lexington was fought and the Concord Bridge, where the shot was fired that was heard 'round the world.

Bunker Hill Monument, the old Wayside Inn and all other principal points of interest around Boston are expected to be visited by the Temples while here, but complete details of their program are yet to come.

But Shirley will be here Friday night, under present plans, and that's enough for her worshippers.

Tipsy Antics Tale Stirs Courtmartial

NEW YORK, July 27 (INS)—Drunken antics ranging from an attempt to drive off with an ice wagon to toppling over on a dance floor were charged to Lieutenant-Colonel Stewart S. Giffin today by Lieutenant James O. Smith, whose allegations have resulted in a court martial for his superior officer.

Giffin, who spent today glowering at his accuser, already has denied the charges and, in his own defense, has introduced a letter written him by Smith in which the latter threatened "I can tell the corps inspector about some things you would not like known."

The letter, Giffin claims, was sent him after he refused Smith a substantial sum of money.

Smith testified today that Giffin, once proclaimed no veteran was worth his salt unless he could sing "Charmaine," feed a hound dog with the same hand he used to feed himself, and was frequently in his cups.

On one occasion, he added, Giffin was drinking when the ice man called.

"He offered the ice man a drink," the witness said. "Then he went out the back door. I saw him trying to climb up on the seat of the ice wagon."

"I grabbed the horse's heads and called for the ice man to help."

Although Mrs. George Baker has already denied that Colonel Giffin was responsible, Smith declared the following incident occurred at the widely-reported dance.

"He was so unsteady he knocked down a music stand."

Later in the evening I saw him dancing with Mrs. Baker. He was swinging her in wide circles and was unsteady and erratic. I finally saw them fall over a table or something."

Parents of 3 Shun Divorce They Sought

WORCESTER, July 27—The flame of re-born love today welded a marital link shattered by law when Douglas Whitcomb, local lawyer, and his socialite mate filed a petition in Probate Court for dismissal of the divorce decree she was granted there in March of this year.

Mrs. Helen F. Whitcomb, a Junior Leaguer and prominent in the younger Worcester social set, was granted an uncontested decree by Judge Harry H. Atwood on grounds of cruelty, after she had testified her husband had repeatedly slapped her awake at night by playing the radio.

Their mutual desire to have the legal separation act aside came just two months before the decree was to have become absolute and it will reunite also their three children, in her sole custody since the divorce.

escorted the body from the West 47th street police station, said he was acting under instructions from an undertaking firm at Southampton, where Ward lived.

Police still listed the youth's name as "Ward," although he was correctly identified as John William Ward, an unemployed bank teller.

He had 26 cents in his pocket at the time of his 200-foot leap, the most spectacular suicide Manhattan has witnessed in years.

The youth's mother, already ill in her Southampton home before news of her son's intention to commit suicide became known, was reported near collapse.

REFUSED MOTHER'S CALL

The mother had talked to him by long-distance telephone before he plunged, begging him to return to her. He declined to talk with her.

Gotham hotel officials said Ward's sister, Mrs. Katherine Bull, 22, checked out of the hotel this morning, without indicating her destination.

She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Ward's former employers, who had taken Ward on an outing to Chicago last week in an attempt to overcome his mood of deep melancholia.

Today, the thousands who saw him jump wondered what queer obstinacy and indecision kept him waiting—poised there with his back against the side of the building, half-crouched, staring moodily down into the night-darkened chasm where the flashbulbs of cameramen flared like fireflies far below.

In all that time he had kept thousands waiting in morbid suspense, thousands who watched him from the street, from bus tops, from windows and the roofs of nearby buildings.

They watched a tiny bit of a man in a white shirt, who drank incredible quantities of water through the long summer afternoon while police cajoled him in vain attempts to dissuade him from thoughts of suicide.

WISECRACKS HEARD

With the coming of night he had become a pale blur as darkness crept up the limestone walls of the Hotel Gotham, Fifth avenue and 55th street, a blur sometimes lost in the gloom, sometimes faintly picked out by the spark of a freshly lighted cigarette.

In the beginning, fear had chilled the hearts of all who saw him. But fear had passed and speculative talk was exchanged, and sorry gibes, arguments, wisecracks.

Obscure in life, Ward, a 26-year-old unemployed bank teller of Southampton, Long Island, became the biggest human focal point in the city for a day.

And so a kind of perverted holiday spirit grew upon the crowd that watched him teetering on his dizzy perch. There were overtones of cynicism. He would not jump. Not by a long shot. Amateur psychologists debated the point. All agreed he would not jump.

The police tried new means of saving him—hoisting up a cargo net they had borrowed from a ship. And then John Ward made his decision.

BLUR PLUNGES

The pale blur detached itself from the gloom high above. A horrified gasp, then a scream from the crowd, and Ward plunged to his death.

All the devices the police and fire departments could think of had failed. The appeals of his mother and his sisters, the persuasive words of a priest and several psychiatrists had gone for nothing.

Police and firemen and everybody else who tried to dissuade Ward from jumping didn't spare themselves. Police stood for hours on duty. Firemen waited with a safety net, which nobody expected to save Ward.

Ward, the Southampton police records show, tried to end his life on July 11, 1937, by cutting his throat with a knife. He recovered and was sent to the state hospital at Central Islip, Long Island. Released in November, he was given employment by Patrick A. Valentine, travel agent head.

BRIDGE JUMP FAILED

A week ago last Monday Ward jumped from a bridge at Hampton Ways, Long Island, and was rescued from the water by police. Valentine and his wife thought they could rouse Ward from his obvious despondency by taking him and his sister, Mrs. Katherine Bull, to Chicago for a visit.

The outing apparently was not successful, for Ward was depressed when they returned to New York on Monday.

They went to the Hotel Gotham. It was about noon yesterday when Ward scrambled through the window of his room, edged along the 18-inch shelf of stone and took a stand midway between two windows at a point where he could lean against a rough carved projection. Then began one of the most nervous and protracted watches New York ever has known.

THROUGHS JAM STREET

The word that Ward, apparently bent on suicide, was getting ready to plunge was flashed to police headquarters. Four radio squad cars sped to 55th street. A fire truck followed. Behind it came a rescue squad wagon.

A crowd quickly gathered. Sidewalkers were jammed on both sides of the street. Crowds ceased swarming in Fifth avenue and stood motionless, waiting in dreadful anticipation.

People appeared on roofs of nearby buildings. Men and women stood against the brown Gothic walls of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, waiting.

High above the street Ward, toes on the edge of the ledge, looked down. Women glanced up and away. Many hurried on, fearful of the end they thought would come in a few minutes.

CROWD SILENT, STARING

A kind of breathless quality marked the crowds. Passengers on the top decks of buses stretched their necks. Office workers, business men, stenographers, women shoppers, men and women going to lunch, forgot their goals and waited to watch.

Ward lighted a cigarette—the first of dozens he was to smoke before death—blew the smoke in a Talk Stalls Death 11 Hrs.

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Talk, talk, talk for ten hours on end kept John Ward on the Hotel Gotham's 11th floor window ledge while exasperated rescuers sought vainly to save him.

Police, firemen, friends, relatives, priests, doctors all talked to him, pleading, coaxing, begging—but Ward just shook his head to all inducements.

"Aw, why don't you come on in?" Patrolman Charles Glasgow asked Ward.

"I'd get into trouble," Ward answered.

Glasgow—"No, you won't. You big cloud, watched it for an instant and then looked down.

At the corner of 55th street and Fifth avenue, laborers worked at a concrete mixer, filling it, carrying concrete to the hotel corner where renovations were being made. The crowds thickened.

Ward trickled downstairs that Ward's sister and the Valentines were trying to get him to come into the hotel room. He shook his head.

PATROLMAN COAXES

Patrolman Charles Glasgow, a soft-spoken man, tried to coax Ward inside. Through all the afternoon and evening Glasgow was to try, tasting the innumerable glasses of water Ward drank to convince the man on the ledge the contents were harmless.

Psychiatrists tried; the sister renewed her pleadings. A young woman from a sales-talk agency tried to convince Ward he ought to come in. To all the pleadings he shook his head or answered he had nothing to live for.

His last words were spoken to Dr. G. C. Presner, a city health department physician, who had talked with him frequently during the day.

"He said he would come in if we could promise him that life was worth living," said Dr. Presner.

"He said he had tried many ventures and failed and that many persons close to him were against him."

WARD'S FINAL WORDS

The youth's final words, the physician said, were:

"There's no way out of it. I have been up here many hours trying to convince myself of a reason for living. I've made up my mind."

Ward then glanced up a moment and at 10:36 p. m. (E. D. T.) he calmly stepped off into space.

Dr. Presner said he did not believe the death leap resulted either from fear or shock.

"He had made his decision," he explained. "The poor fellow was irrational during the last half hour."

Earlier, however, his mind had appeared clear as he gazed fascinated at the growing throngs beneath him.

HOLIDAY NOTE ENTERS

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the crowds still were growing, but something of the tension had departed. Here and there a man appeared with binoculars. An ice cream vendor sold his wares as quickly as he could hand them out.

2 p. m.—The police began clearing the streets of all except news-and I are the only ones dealing in this.

Ward—"How about all that crowd out there?"

Glasgow—"You don't know a one of them, John. They are the same people who stare at airplanes. You can't tell me you recognize anybody."

Ward—"Yeah, but I won't come in."

Glasgow—"And besides, your bellboy friend wants to see you. Imagine, that poor guy will get fired if you don't come in. He's got a wife and three kids."

Ward—"That's too bad. Have you got a cigarette?"

The young man got his cigarette and Mrs. Patrick Valentine, wife of the friend outside whose hotel window Ward was perched, took up the conversation again.

Ward—"Who the hell is this, anyway?"

Mrs. Valentine—"This is Catherine, John."

Ward—"How do I know?"

Mrs. Valentine—"You know the poem?"

Ward—"Yeah, how does it start?"

Mrs. Valentine spoke a few words of French.

"Okay, Catherine," Ward said, but he wouldn't come in.

Police Captain O'Brien had no better luck.

"Why, you haven't done anything, John," he said soothingly, wouldn't jump. He's lost his nerve, they said.

Darkness brought fresh activity from the police. Reports of many plans to save Ward went the rounds. Then the big cargo net arrived and after a great deal of trouble started its upward flight.

"It won't be long now," everybody said. "They'll get that baby."

They were still saying it when Ward jumped, his body crashed against the glass of the marquee, splintering the gutter, and tumbled over slowly into the police.

Parley Planned On State Wage Law

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Secretary Perkins soon will call a conference of state labor executives to draft a model wage-hour law which states may enact to supplement the new federal legislation.

Mrs. O'Riordan In Council Race

Nomination signatures filed for certification with the Quincy election commissioners revealed today that Mrs. Margaret O'Riordan of Jamaica Plain will be a candidate for Governor's councillor in the second district, which includes that city.

The present incumbent, Joseph E. Grossman of Quincy, suddenly withdrew his candidacy for reelection a few days ago.

Mrs. O'Riordan was the center of a heated political controversy on Beacon Hill during the administration of Governor Curley when he unsuccessfully tried to have the executive council confirm his appointment of her as state librarian.

Hurley Drops Bond Issue

Governor Hurley today gave way to the Republican-controlled legislature and agreed to drop his demands for bond issues as a means of relieving unemployment.

new until frost interferes in December.

TO DIVIDE JOBS

Because $3,000,000 of the fund, under the compromise, would go to cities and towns, approximately 3600 of such jobs would have to be handled by local agencies. The remaining 2400 would be given from his department, Callahan said.

After discussion of the compromise, leaders of both the Democrats and Republicans called party caucuses to determine their course of action.

The governor's decision to drop his demands for borrowing through bond issues a sum that he started at $23,625,000 and later dropped to $10,000,000, was considered a victory for the Republican leaders, who had called his program "a campaign slush fund."

17 MILLION TAX

Developments indicate that the state tax—the annual assessment against cities and towns for state expenses—will be set at about $17,000,000.

As revealed in yesterday's Boston Evening American, a Republican threat to hold up the annual 10 per cent surtax on large incomes played a large part in today's move for compromise.

Failure of the surtax measure to pass would mean $4,500,000 more of an assessment against cities and towns to make it up, thereby boosting the state tax to $21,000,000, a record for all time.

Kelly to Press Vote Drive

Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, today announced that his campaign organization will immediately embark upon a statewide drive to swell the party registration rosters for the September primaries.

"Through the efforts of my Boston organization," Kelly declared, "more than 2000 Democrats have been registered since July 1, and I expect 15,000 more will have been added when the voters' lists are closed on August 31."

South End Vice Cleanup Ordered

men allegedly acting as go-betweens in arranging "guaranteed immunity" for South End vice resorts.

The amount budgeted by a certain vice ring for "protection" pay-offs was specified as $600 monthly.

In his first vice-cleanup order, quietly passed to the department officials immediately concerned, Commissioner Timilty set a 48-hour deadline, before which definite results were to be accomplished.

Of the period he allowed, 24 hours had elapsed today.

ISSUES ULTIMATUM

So once again word went out from headquarters that the commissioner expected action—and expected it without another night's delay!

To officers and men of the divisions affected he offered three choices:

1.—Clean up the vice resorts and put their operators before court.

2.—Check up on complaints of existence of organized vice and allegations of police "protection" and prove them unfounded.

3.—Continue to ignore the reported situation—and take the consequences!

FIRINGS HINTED

From Commissioner Timilty, himself, no intimation of the nature of the threatened "consequences" could be obtained.

Throughout the department generally, however, certain predictions were being made.

Almost unanimous was the belief that the commissioner "meant business" and that disciplinary measures he might take would not stop at transfers or even at a "shakeup."

Demotions or even dismissals from the force were penalties looming for officers or men found implicated in vice protection, the department believed today.

Attention of District Attorney Foley and Commissioner Timilty was first called to South End conditions by a series of written complaints from citizens. It was reported today.

Some of these complaints were anonymous, some were not.

Some could be definitely classed as "infite" letters, some as irresponsible, some as malicious fabrications.

But to Commissioner Timilty and his veteran deputies, the letters as a whole had a grave significance.

The conditions they purported to describe were set forth again and again in similar detail.

The conclusion was almost inevitable that there was fire behind the smoke, sordid fact supporting possibly prejudiced charges.

as soon as I get out of here," the message also said.

"Let him get himself out," was the reply sent back by Mrs. Mildred Dickey Tochterman, 28, of Highland avenue, Somerville.

Then she rose and left the courtroom. Tochterman being taken to East Cambridge jail.

70.2 ABSENT

Wife No. 2, Edna Reardon, 22, of Boston, was not in court.

Tochterman, it is charged, maintained homes in Somerville and Cambridge until police, investigating larcenies from the warehouse, allegedly found missing articles at the Cambridge apartment, and then ran across the alleged bigamy.

Following his arrest Tochterman allegedly told authorities he kept up the hoax through his job as an interstate truckman.

When he kissed goodbye to one spouse for a two-day absence, he was always "bound for New York" with a load of freight, police claim.

Police charge he was married in separate New Hampshire ceremonies. The first marriage, it is charged, was in 1927, at Freeport, N. H., to Mildred Dickey, of Somerville, with whom he lived in a Highland avenue, Somerville, apartment.

In the second marital venture three months ago at Seabrook, N. H., he allegedly took the name of Gilbert Arthur Roots to wed Edna Virginia Reardon, with whom he set up a home on Inman street, Cambridge.

At the latter home, Sergt. Wellington D. Bateman allegedly found several hundred dollars' worth of stolen silverware, jewelry and furniture.

"I married him in good faith," Miss Reardon, his latest bride, sobbed today. "I didn't know about his other wife."

She was brought with Tochterman to Cambridge police headquarters and when police learned how she had been tricked in the marital mixup she was allowed to return to her home.

Tochterman's first wife is a telephone operator at a Boston Hospital.

She broke down and wept when told of the alleged facts.

Charles F. Bingle, 33, of Inman street, was charged with manslaughter today after a collision between his car and a motorcycle, which resulted in the death of Kelly and injuries to Howard E. Reigle, 25, of Durham, Pa.

According to police, Kelly and Reigle were on the motorcycle, and in the collision at Cambridge and Hampshire streets, Kelly was hurled 20 feet into the air and landed 40 feet from the spot of the accident. Reigle, they said, was driving.

THE NEW HAVEN

Carnegie Kin's Bridal Costly

By CHARLES A. SMITH

DORNOCH, Scotland, July 27 (INS)—In Dornoch's 700-year-old cathedral, Louise Carnegie Miller, Andrew Carnegie's granddaughter, was married today to a Scottish lawyer 23 years her senior.

The 18-year-old heiress was wed at noon to J. F. Gordon Thomson before 400 guests in a ceremony hailed as the most lavish ever witnessed in northern Scotland.

Roswell Miller, New York real estate operator, gave his daughter away. The aged widow of the late steel king saw her granddaughter married.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with lace at the sleeves and "V" neck and a long satin train trimmed with lace. The skirt was full-fashioned. Her veil was the same that her mother had worn at her wedding. It was simply draped, and held back by a headdress of clustered orange blossoms.

$15,000 WEDDINGS

It was estimated the entire wedding, including the reception attended by 1000 guests, cost at least $25,000.

Three ministers officiated at the wedding ceremony.

Six bridesmaids followed the bride, Miss Martha Kennedy of New York, Miss Barbara Miller, and Miss Margaret Miller, sisters of the bride; Miss Margaret Brooner, Miss Eleanor White, and Miss Veronica Taylor, cousin of the bridegroom.

Best man was T. B. Simpson, who, like the bridegroom, is an Edinburgh lawyer.

Mrs. Margaret Miller, the bride's mother; Roswell Miller, Jr., her brother, and numerous relatives and friends were among the guests crowding the small, ancient church, which was decorated with blooms from Skibo Castle, million-dollar Carnegie home, where the reception was held.

TOASTS TO COUPLE

During the festivities, members of the family and close friends gathered in Carnegie's study, untouched since his death in 1919, and drank a toast in honor of the bride and groom and in memory of "Auld Andy."

Eight hundred bottles of champagne were on hand. The luncheon consisted of chicken, lobster, salmon and fruit. The lobster was a delicate dish, cooked with vodka, Canteloupes and peaches were brought from the south of France.

Thus lavishly was fulfilled Carnegie's prediction of many years ago that "wedding bells will yet ring at Skibo for a Carnegie."

Following a honeymoon abroad, the couple will live in Edinburgh.

False Teeth Wearers Are Worst Breath Offenders!

"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities... Recommend Polident

Plates and bridges soak up odors and impurities like a sponge! A thin dark scum collects on them. This scum holds germs and decay bacteria. It is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. And it gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, the powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in a glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Nation Honors Joseph Lee Tomorrow

The late Joseph Lee of Boston, "Father of the American Playground," will be honored throughout the nation tomorrow on National Joseph Lee Day.

Tributes for the noted recreation leader poured in today from leaders of the city, state and nation, with President Roosevelt among those who had high praise for the Boston philanthropist.

In his message, the President said in part:

"Today in the far-flung communities of a great nation children are happier, youth is better served and men and women have a chance to live more richly because of the life and work of Joseph Lee."

Boston will celebrate the day with appropriate ceremonies on all playgrounds of the city and with dedication of the Fenway Stadium Playground, to be known hereafter as Joseph Lee Playground.

Adult games and recreation demonstrations will be held on Boston Common, to be climaxed by an open-air pageant at night.

Joseph Lee Day was inaugurated by the National Recreation Association of which Joseph Lee was founder and president. He devoted his life and fortune to public recreation and organized the first public playground in America on Columbus avenue 38 years ago.

Fever Peril Seen in Ticks

A recurrence in Massachusetts of an outbreak of Rocky Mountain spotted fever for the second successive year today moved local health authorities to warn against dog ticks, carriers of the virulent disease.

Two victims of the rare communicable fever are already under treatment here. One is at the Carney Hospital and the other at a hospital on Cape Cod.

The Carney Hospital patient is Mrs. Catherine O'Brien of Addington road, West Roxbury, who is said to have contracted the disease after a visit to relatives in Maryland, where she assisted in picking ticks off the family dog.

According to Dr. Frederick J. Bailey, deputy city health commissioner of Boston, the dangerous ticks are found in field mice, dogs, cattle, horses, squirrels, raccoons and skunks.

Postal Worker 22 Years Faces Theft Charge

A World War veteran, now a National Guard captain, and with a record of 22 years' honorable service in the postal department, was arrested today charged with the theft of $4 from a letter.

He is Harold V. Sheridan, 42, of Concord street, Maynard. He was arrested by Post Office Inspectors John J. Callaghy and Daniel P. Rooney and charged with detaining and stealing from a letter in the United States mails.

Sheridan was questioned by Assistant U. S. Attorney Jackson J. Holtz, and later taken before U. S. Commissioner Harry N. Guferman. He waived reading of the complaint, pleaded not guilty, and was held in $1000.

Sheridan entered government service in 1916 as a substitute letter carrier. In 1917 he joined the army and was made a regular carrier in 1920 when he returned with an honorable discharge.

After leaving the army he joined the National Guard and is captain of L. Company, 181st Infantry.

Post office inspectors said that after they received a complaint that money had been taken from letters, they sent a "test" piece of mail with four $1 bills in it.

When Sheridan was arrested, they said, he had the envelope in his back pocket and the four marked bills in his coat.

Czechs Reveal German Plan

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles on the new war threat in Central Europe.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PRAGUE, July 27.—The Czech intelligence service is the best in Europe. It has to be if Czechoslovakia is to live. Small, and surrounded by enemies, the nation has to be constantly on the alert as it was on the dramatic night of mobilization, May 20.

The Czechs have discovered new evidence of how deeply persistent, and invariable, was the German campaign for conquest of Czechoslovakia.

They have unearthed the organization in Germany of a "Sudeten German Legion," consisting of Nazi storm troops, supposedly of Sudeten origin, whose purpose is to arm and drill, and wait for the day when the "real" may be caught napping.

Czechs declare the German plan to May was to bring some numbers of these "Sudeten German Legion" members, carrying a divide supply of rifles and hand grenades to the border and await the signal from their German brothers occupying frontier Czechoslovakia.

The signal was to be armed clashes provoked by the Sudeten Germans with the Czech police. The German storm troops would then pour across the border, mingle with the Sudeten, give them arms. The Czech police probably would be compelled to fire, perhaps to call on the army. German blood would flow, and the Czechs be deceived that would mean German of the plan that failed.

That according to the Czechs, it was the German plan. It failed because the Czech army mobilized swiftly.

The plan may be exposed to a better and larger degree to the Czech police, and, according to hand, according to Czech police.

According to the Czech report, the leader of these Sudeten Germans is Hans Krebs, a Sudeten German one of the men who can boast of having been a Nazi before Adolf Hitler. He was one of the original Nazis who organized formally in Vienna in May 1917.

Just before the May crisis, Krebs was promoted to be "Gauleiter" of the Nazi party, the most powerful subordinate position in the party. The Gauleiters are the men who actually govern the country. Krebs' rank was published, but his province was not named.

Boy Salvagers Go on Rocks

Two youths who made their way from Rockland, Me., to Boston and hired a motorboat and an acetylene torch to go into the sea and salvage business went on the rocks today, figuratively speaking, when they ran into the Boston police department.

The two were busy engaged in running metal from the stern of the City of Boston, which was sunk in a collision with the liner City of Berlin. The police boat William M. Brewster overhauled them.

After it was explained to them it was not "all right" to salvage the vessel, which is above water, they put the torch and metal and then put back to shore.

It is understood by all that his province is to be Czechoslovakia. Every Czech is convinced that nothing will stop the Nazis from attempting to swallow Czechoslovakia except force, and therefore every Czech is prepared to use force.

The Czechs have prepared in such a way that the most possible consequences of any attempt by Sudeten Putsch would fall upon the Sudeten themselves. Their reaction would be desperate if they were to attempt a Putsch during the current mobilization of the Czech army, especially if the German army were to march to their assistance.

They would be caught between the Czech and German armies and would virtually be wiped out. The Sudeten know it too. One of them said to me:

"We may all perish, but better death than separation from our land, our soil, our homeland."

Flood Peril Increases

lated to the work remained at principal Charles river beaches to keep children out of the water there.

Cambridge, Brighton and Newton police received orders to watch all streams and ponds and to keep tabs on groups of children obviously intent on finding swimming holes.

ASKS BOATING

Joseph Lee, chairman of the Massachusetts committee for the promotion of outdoor recreation, has asked the Metropolitan district commission to take immediate steps to provide boating facilities in the Charles River Basin for the 1939 season.

The crest of the Charles River flood appeared due to reach Greater Boston area late today.

In Dorchester and Hyde Park, the Neponset river overflowed Edgewater road, surrounding many homes with water and obliging residents of the neighborhood to wear rubber boots or submit to a wetting every time they left their dwellings.

In Mattuck, Dover, Dedham and West Roxbury, the Charles River was a record height, well above the level reached in the flood of 1936.

DAM UNDER FLOOD

Tremendous rush of the swollen current at Charles River village between Needham and Dover, prevented repair of the wrecked wooden dam there.

The larger, cement dam, which still held, was three feet under water, even with pressure reduced by the flow through the break in the other barrier.

Boats and canoes continued to be pressed into service by occupants of hundreds of flooded homes in the riverable communities. Police and town authorities supervised deliveries of food and other necessities to marooned families.

The Sudbury River was ten feet above normal today, with flood conditions reported at Wayland.

Old Sudbury road was under four feet of water for nearly a mile. In the Hind Pond section, off Pelham road, 43 adults and 20 children were isolated.

The Concord River was reported at flood height, but damage along its valley was comparatively slight.

Boston After Dark

By JACK CONWAY

THE FIRST part of this column should be entitled "Gloucester Before Dark" . . . I experienced the thrill of standing beside Captain Ben Pine, of the Gertrude L. Thebaud, as he hoisted sail on the champion of the Gloucester fleet and headed up the coast towards Rockport . . . The Gertrude Thebaud, which will race the Bluenose, of Nova Scotia, in the first of a series of international races on October 9, has two masts and five sails.

As the Gertrude Thebaud headed North under its own power, Captain Ben Pine set his five sails. The sails were placed into position by automatic controls . . . Down below, Diesel engines sent the fishing craft through the calm waters at a fast clip . . . Later the sails increased the speed of the craft.

"When we race the Bluenose," said Captain Pine, "we shall set our sails by hand. We shall have 30 men in our crew, and I am confident they will display sufficient seamanship to beat the Nova Scotia boat."

"The first race, a distance of 40 miles, will be contested off Boston Light . . . There will then be races off Gloucester . . . It will be best three out of five . . . The Diesel engines will be quiet as we return to old fashioned sailing methods."

Traffic Cops for Fleet Next

SERGEANT EDMUND CRONIN of the Gloucester police department was promised the command of the Gloucester fleet in full uniform, decorated they would, soon have traffic officers in the fishing fleet.

The romance has gone out of the fishing fleet," declared Sergeant Cronin. "What we have these engines and the latest type of equipment in the fishing fleet is much like another. In the old days the fishing boats were like even though built by the same manufacturer. They were like thoroughbred race horses, and each had its own strong points. The Irish have quit the sea. Years ago there were thousands of Irish among the members of the Gloucester fleet. Now the Italians are in the majority and they are very good sailors."

Captain Ben Pine, who will pilot the American boat again this coming Fall, told me he was born in Newfoundland 55 years ago, and that he settled in Gloucester when a boy of ten years . . . He has been brought up with the smell of the sea in his nostrils . . . He declared most of the members of his crew for the Gertrude Thebaud's races will come from Gloucester, but that other sections of New England will also have their representatives.

Patrol Wagon Used as Taxi

WHEN I arrived at Gloucester from Scituate, aboard Captain Paul J. Riechburg's Riechburg, I couldn't get a bus or a taxi to take me to Magnolia, where I was to sit in with the police chiefs of Massachusetts at their Summer dinner at the Casino . . . So I suggested to Chief of Police M. J. Stewart that he get City Marshal J. Henry Burgess to loan us the city's patrol wagon . . . And that was the way we made the trip from Gloucester to Magnolia and back to Gloucester . . . I would suggest they have windows in patrol wagons that open, or else install an air conditioning system . . . It certainly was hot in there.

At the Casino I noticed Superintendent of Police Edward W. Fallon of Boston, Chief Tighe, of Revere, Chief Castello, of Peabody, who had charge of the famous Jesse Castello case, Clerk of Court Arthur J. Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan, of Hingham, Hugh F. Strain and Mrs. Strain, of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Court Officer Robert Jackson and Mrs. Jackson, of Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Eben H. Page, Mrs. B. C. Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Quenno, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burns, Miss Helen Wallace, assistant clerk of the Hingham court, Chief of Police Michael J. Stewart of Scituate and Mrs. Stewart, and Judge Frederick Fassick of the Superior Court.

Carroll, manager M.P. Paramount Theater, Boston, and Prof. William G. Hoffman, authority on public speaking and English, Boston University.

"Scene in the Movies" contained 35 scenes from motion pictures. Readers were requested to select the name of the motion picture in which the scene appeared from a list printed near the picture. They were also asked to choose a name of one movie player represented in the scene, from another list.

All solutions were accompanied by a 50-cent letter on "What my favorite motion picture is and why."

These letters were used in case of ties.

Grand Circuit in } Greyhound Set to Opening Today } Race on Friday

By JACK CONWAY

FOLLOWERS OF the harness horse will be in their element with the Grand Circuit opening a ten-day meeting at Agawam Park today.

Mr. Boston

Paul Bowser, who is sponsoring the meeting, has offered $70,000 in purses, and has attracted the most brilliant array of trotters and pacers to ever gather at a New England race track.

With the majority of the Grand Circuit horses owned by millionaires who are interested in racing for sports sake, the racing game in the western part of the state should benefit from the present meeting.

The heavy rains made it necessary to call off most of the Grand Circuit races scheduled for Old Orchard, Me., and the horsemen have been obliged to look forward to the races at Agawam. This is a good break for Agawam and should result in large crowds and soaring mutual handles.

The presence of the great Greyhound at Agawam has aroused tremendous interest. Greyhound will race on Friday and again on next Tuesday. Greyhound is America's wouder trotter and could not be purchased for $250,000.

I am planning a trip to Agawam on Friday to see the Greyhound in action, and will also be back at the up-state track the early part of next week.

Billy Direct, champion pacer, will also be seen in action at Agawam. He will compete on Friday and again on next Tuesday.

Picture Finishes at Dog Tracks

SHELDON FAIRBANKS says that the most helpful things at the Revere dog track are the camera finishes.

"Dog track fans as well as those that visit the horse tracks," said Fairbanks, "have got to see they rely upon camera finishes to make definite decisions in close races. At Revere we call our camera the 'Eye in the Sky,' and it certainly does an excellent job."

"Many of the fans do not realize that a movie picture is taken of the dogs as they race towards the wire. The judges, when they call for a picture, use the one where the winning dog has just hit the wire with his nose."

"Pictures of finishes have eliminated disputes over races. I do not believe it is possible to operate a horse or dog track without camera pictures. The public is sold on the idea that the camera is faster than the human eye."

Camera finishes have worked very satisfactorily at New England tracks this season. Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park have used the Jones camera which gives excellent pictures of finishes. The Jones camera picks up the horses as they come pounding through the stretch, and follows them until they hit the wire.

There was a case at Suffolk Downs where the stewards questioned the riding of a jockey during the stretch. Various pictures were examined, and the stewards, with the camera supporting what they saw themselves, decided the jockey had pulled his mount. The jockey was told to pack his belongings and get off the track.

Rally to Aid of Charity Day

LET EVERYBODY rally to the aid of the great charity day Mayor Maurice J. Tobin is going to stage at Fenway Park on Monday afternoon. The Mayor and his committee have arranged for the finest array of sports ever offered on a single afternoon in Boston.

There will be three ball games of three innings each. One will find the firemen playing the policemen, another feature crack Park Department teams, while the third will find heads of State divisions battling with their City Hall rivals.

A ten-mile race will be the high spot of the track program. There then will be boxing, wrestling and a few short speeches.

Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Cy Young, Tris Speaker and other sports greats will give the event color and sparkle. Judge Emil Fuchs informs me 25,000 tickets have already been sold, and that 10,000 more will be disposed of before the action begins.

From the standpoint of value for money paid it is the best bargain of the year. Even better than the one Eddie Collins offered last Monday when the Red Sox and Indians divided a thrilling double-header.

I have noticed Police Commissioner Joe Timilty in the press box at recent ball games, and I presume he is trying to get pointers for his baseball club.

I wish to advise the Police Commissioner that Fire Commissioner Reilly is a former Boston College athlete, and that he knows his baseball. Fire Chief Sam Pope is up on all sports, and is probably figuring out some new play to try against the policemen.

The poor of the city will receive every dime that is paid for tickets. I would suggest that you get your postcard early, help a worthy charity, and witness the finest sports program of the year.

Casey Pins Shikat in Title Bout

By JACK CONWAY

Steve Casey today is undisputed heavyweight wrestling champion of the world as a result of his victory over Dick Shikat in a grueling battle before 6000 persons at a Paul Bowser show at Fenway Park.

The mighty Irishman pinned Shikat for the winning fall in one hour, fifteen minutes. As the bout lasted for more than an hour, only one fall was necessary to win under the rules of the match.

Casey paved the way for his smashing victory by coming out of a headlock to bang Shikat on the chin with a savage right hand punch. The giant Celt then picked Shikat up, and slammed him to the canvas three times, finally pinning him.

The bout was lacking in the spectacular due to the fact neither wrestler took a single unnecessary chance.

Casey was determined to regain his title, and eliminate what claim Shikat had to the championship. The German, on the other hand, was making his last stand to get into the big money once more.

In the early part of the bout, Shikat repeatedly called upon arm locks to punish Casey. He also tried to use the hammerlock which enabled him to win his New York bout from Dan O'Mahony, who at the time was world champion.

Casey relied upon body and arm holds. The Celt would retreat to the ropes when Shikat would apply a punishing hold, and make Referee Sam Smith order the grapplers to the center of the ring again.

As the bout progressed, Casey's superior strength gave him the edge. In the tests of sheer strength, Casey proved he is more powerful than Shikat, while he was the German's master in the application of wrestling holds.

Tommy Rae of Springfield and Joe Dunn of Texas went 30 minutes to a draw in the semi-final.

Jim Wallis, former Holy Cross football star, was held even by Hymie Olson of Minneapolis in a 15-minute affair.

John Maloney of South Boston and Charley Strack of Oklahoma were also on even terms at the end of 15 minutes.

Wladek Zbyzsko of Poland won from John Pudubney of Russia in 3 minutes 4 seconds with a flying mare and body press.

Hans Steinko of Germany didn't have much trouble winning from Joe Swan, football player, in 9 minutes 5 seconds. Steinko used an arm and leg grapevine and body press to win.

Pick Armstrong To Stop Ambers

By Associated Press

Pete Sarron, one of the grandest little fighters who ever saw, is out of the hospital and playing golf—he'll be back in the ring soon.

Tony Galento still doing all right, thank goodness (and it's too bad we can't say the same for the Giant). . . . Coach Chuck Finley who will bring his Hobbs (N. M.) high eagle basketball team to New York next season, already has 'em working out once a week. . . . "Red" Murphy, line captain at Texas Tech, was born on a Louisiana house boat—something we've always wanted to live on. . . . You now can get three to one here that Armstrong treats Ambers just like he has been treating everybody else. . . .

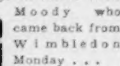

Babe Ruth

La Moody plans plenty of practice sessions before tackling Helen Jacobs again at Forest Hills and La Jacobs might take the same hint. . . . In an exhibition game the other night between Brooklyn and Albany, a fan said: "Mr. Ruth, I have never seen you sock one." . . . Well, attend to that right now," responded the Babe and during it he didn't park one on his next time up. . . . Incidentally, the three exhibitions the Dodgers have played since Ruth joined up have drawn 35,724 fans.

Down at Winston-Salem, N. C., everybody is giving three long ones and ringing the fire bells. . . . For the first time in 20 years they've got a baseball owner (Alvin Crowder) who can recognize a baseball wizard in his own town. . . . He assigned up Charlie Clancy to manage his twins in the Piedmont League and the rest of the clubs had better look out. . . . If they'll leave Clancy alone, give him a little dough and let him make his own deals he'll soon be turning out those three-in-a-row pennant winning teams like he did back in the early teens. . . .

Galento is out of the ring for the rest of the year, anyway. . . . Bill Terry ought to shoot some trusty south, check up on Burgess Whitehead and get the fellow back up here. . . . New York baseball writers have made the Giants a 6 to 5 choice to win. . . . Also the big town sports writers can't get over the astounding change in Helen Wills

Helen Moody

Moody who came back from Wimbledon Monday. . . . She not only answered questions like a trouper, but actually smiled for the photos. . . . If the "big six" will agree to take their indoor track meet to Kansas City next year, one of the best board tracks in the world will be fitted up for 'em. . . . Best looking heavyweight prospect right now is Gunnar Barlund of Finland. . . .

Stengel Issues New Orders to Fletcher

Reds First Sacker Falls Victim to Cupid's Thrust

By WALTER KILEY

Gene Moore was operated upon at the Trumbull Hospital this morning by Dr. H. G. Lee.

The history of these "floating cartilage" operations is full of return to normalcy after a few months of favoring. There is small chance that the Bees' rightfielder will be able to return to the lineup this season.

Big Paul Derringer will never pitch a greater seven-inning stretch than in his winning performance against the Bees. Not a Bee reached first, just 21 batters facing him.

There was much contrary evidence on whether or not Deb Garms touched first base when, with two gone in the seventh, he connected for a clean hit to center, landing on second. Frank McCormick, Reds' first baseman, did not know. He said he was looking towards the ball when Garms rounded first. But Manager McKechnie insists he didn't, and Umpire George Barr, at first, agreed with the manager.

Gene Moore

George Kelley, coaching for the Bees at first, says he did not see Garms touch the base. But he insists he did hear the solid and familiar thud of Garms' foot as he hit the bag. For a time it seemed as though Casey Stengel would get his walking ticket so vociferous was his argument with the arbiter.

Funny thing about the matter failing to touch a base is that the umpire is not permitted to call it until a member of the field team has called his attention to the oversight. Then the umpire can make known his own decision.

Casey Stengel has served notice to Elbie Fletcher that he must hit to left field, with no two ways about it. Mil Shoffner tried his hand at pitching in a brief war in a lineup and suffered no disastrous effects from his recent operation.

Big Frank McCormick, Reds' great first baseman, declares to you're truly that he will become a benedict immediately after the baseball season is over. "Handsome Frank" is marrying a Bronx girl.

Derringer waited five years to make his first home and did it right here in Boston where homers must be earned honestly. Wally Berger keeps on with his hitting spree and seems to be taking particular delight in socking his former mates. He laced one of Jim Turner's pitches for his 11th homer of the year.

Stengel was highly pleased with the fine comeback showing of Catcher Al Lopez and will use him freely for the time being to give Ray Mueller a much needed respite from intensive duty. Mueller's fine catching has received plaudits from many veteran men of the ball. He has lost weight recently and his batting has suffered.

McKechnie Fears Revivified Cubs

By WALTER KILEY

Will McKechnie, the former Bostonian, now the manager making good with a vengeance in Cincinnati, opines that the fun is just started in what he calls the "free-for-all race toward the National League pennant."

Sam Baugh Insists On Raise

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Slingin' Sammy Baugh, whose accurate right arm tossed the Washington Redskins to a professional football championship last year, was slated to talk over a contract for this year with a representative of the Redskins today.

Baugh, who has been getting in to a number of baseball games at shortstop for the Rochester Red Wings of the International League this summer, said that "if I can get what I want from the pros I'll play for Washington this season."

"I don't have to accept anything less," he added. "There's a good job as backfield coach in a large university—just where I'd rather not say—waiting for me any time I care to take it. I like pro football, but I can't see any percentage in playing, taking the risks that are part of the game, for the money that some of the boys are accepting."

"If the Redskins want me again this season, they'll pay me what I ask. Otherwise I'll stay with the Wings just as long as I think I can help a little bit and when I'll take that coaching job."

Sivell, Heacock Join All-Stars

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27 (AP)—James Ralph Sivell of Auburn, Alabama Poly guard, and Clinton Heacock of Muskingum, Ohio, fullback, have signed to play with the College All Stars against the Chicago Bears under guard, and auspices for the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children fund on Brown Field, Thursday evening, Sept. 1.

The Scotchman, who still looks strangely out of place in an alien uniform, and whose fortunes have decidedly changed for the better since taking the "Mid-West" sure is more than concerned, however, with the possibilities of the Pirates.

But McKechnie, whose Reds meet the Bees in a double-header at the Beehive this p. m., is not overlooking the Giants and is particularly impressed with the Chicago Cubs.

"Now that the Cubs have set their house in order, with Gabby Hartnett's appointment as manager freeing the atmosphere from uncertainty, with Dizzy Dean patently back in top condition, and the Cubs' batters coming through handsomely, I can't see how Chicago can be figured out," he says.

But Manager Will is content with the Reds, as is, and he is confident his crowd will stay up in the thick of the title contention.

"I can't see how we can fall down very badly with the great hitting we've been getting and will continue to get."

"Our recent troubles have been defensive ones which include only average pitching. But our pitching shows every indication of returning to standard, and I look to see much better performances in the second half than we got in the first."

"But there is one pitcher I am eminently satisfied with. That's Johnny Vander Meer. I think he's done a wonderful job for a youngster, particularly with all the pressure on him after his two no-hit performances."

"The boy is learning all the time. He's using his curve a lot. He's mixing them up and finding out how to save his arm. I look for great things from him in the future."

Jockey

Rollins Near Death

CHICAGO, July 27 (INS) — Jockey Charles Rollins was reported resting easily today at Northwestern Hospital after narrowly escaping death when he was thrown by one race horse at Arlington Park and run over by another.

Rollins, astride Layover from the W. C. Reichert Stable, scraped the rail just before reaching the back stretch turn and was hurled to the track. Shelby King, just a few steps behind, galloped over the prostrate jockey. He received a fractured rib and possible spinal injuries.

Sox Rained Out; They'll Do It Every Time -:- Hatlo

CHICAGO, Ill., July 27—The Red Sox are idle again today for their companion of last week, Old Jupiter Pluvius, caught up to them again and washed out today's double-header with Jimmy Dykes' Chisox.

But Joe Cronin isn't terribly upset over this vacation even though five of the last eight days has found him gazing in his room watching the rain patten on the window panes.

For the lack of pitchers has finally begun to plague Boss Joe and his flock.

With Moose Grove and Johnny Marcano back home nursing ailing arms, the Sox have but seven hurlers on this trip, and four of them have pitched in the last two days.

MAY BE INEVITABLE

So, only Jack Wilson, Archie McKain and Dick Midkiff would have been valuable or today's twin bill and a single game tomorrow against the Chisox, but with the raining out of today's games Cronin will be in better position in tomorrow's double-header which was manufactured by today's rain.

But this cancellation may be nothing more than a stay of the inevitable unless Lefty Grove and Johnny Marcano's return to action is in the immediate future.

The Sox pinned their hopes on Freddie Ostermuller in the opener here, but the veteran southpaw wasn't strong enough to carry the load.

After holding his own with the ancient Ted Lyons for four frames, he was hammered for six runs in the next two stanzas before giving way to Lee Rogers.

Thus, the Back Bay boys took a 9 to 1 licking and dropped 2½ games back of the second-place Indians, who walloped the A's.

It's become quite apparent that Ostermuller can't pitch effectively more than three or four innings except on very rare occasions. It's a case of the spirit being willing but the flesh being weak. The arm he had operated on last winter with after a few frames.

He has the courage and enough stuff left in his wing to win or save a lot of games as a relief flinger, and his efforts ought to be confined to that role.

The pitching situation being what it is, there's nothing Cronin can do but start "Osty" in turn and hope for the best.

At that, though, full blame for the Tuesday setback can't be placed on "Fritz."

His mates committed four errors and the single tally they were dinged with was knocked in by the pitcher.

MONTREAL, July 27 (AP)—Bobby Murray of Montreal and Ross Wilson of Toronto were named today as Canada's singles players against Japan in the Davis Cup tennis matches starting tomorrow, with Wilson and Laird Daulton of Montreal handling the doubles.

The Japanese decided to place the whole burden of the three-day competition on Jiro Yamaguchi, considered Japan's best, and Fumitero Nakano. The Japs brought Nakano and Wilson together for the first match. Murray, Canada's No. 1 player, will meet Yamaguchi in the second. The doubles will be played Friday and the final singles matches Saturday.

Galento Whips Pneumonia

ORANGE, N. J., July 27 (AP)—Two-ton Tony Galento knocked "that bum"—Broncho Pneumonia—through the ropes today. Definite improvement in the heavy-weight fighter's condition was reported by his physician, Dr. Joseph High.

The day's first bulletin at Orange Memorial Hospital said:

"Condition improved. Temperature and pulse approaching normal. No evidence of complications at present."

No more blood transfusions are contemplated, the doctor said. Tony had one yesterday and two on Sunday.

Canada, Japan

Primed for Match

MONTREAL, July 27 (AP)—Canada and Japan appear at their peak for the first round American Zone series that starts tomorrow. Faced through a hard session by Fred Perry, the Canadian quartet of Bob Murray, Ross Wilson, Laird Daulton and Doug Cameron looked in the best shape of their month of training.

The Japanese were even more impressive as Captain Tamio Abe smoothed out the wrinkles left by the long layoff from competition.

TOPS FLOOD MARK

Already higher than it was during the destructive flood of 1936, the Charles River continued to rise in the Greater Boston area today.

It was expected to reach its peak height tonight, with further extensive damage threatened.

Meantime, today's sunny skies brought a new worry to thousands of parents in sections adjacent to the river, as boys and girls, banned from polluted bathing beaches, sought "swimming holes" unprotected by guards.

Metropolitan district police, recognizing the danger of drownings in unsupervised bathing places, organized special cruising car patrols.

Stocks Break $1-$4 a Share

NEW YORK, July 27 (INS).—The stock market broke badly today under a deluge of selling that swamped the high-speed ticker and brought losses of $1 to more than $4 a share. It was the worst reaction since the spectacular bull market got under way on June 20.

Wave after wave of liquidation pushed the ticker seven minutes behind, forcing use of the stock exchange's "flash" system.

All sections of the list crumbled under the selling wave, which followed a mild rally in the first few minutes of trading.

VICE CLEANUP ORDERED BY FOLEY, TIMILTY

District Attorney Foley and Police Commissioner Timilty joined today in a drive to clean up "protected" vice in the South End.

No. 1 Spurs Shared Hubby

Stunned and angered over the revelation that the man she married nearly 11 years ago began, two months ago, a double life which included a second wife, the first spouse refused today to find bail for him.

In Cambridge court, Gilbert Tocherman, 29, a furniture storage warehouse worker, pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy but not guilty to one of larceny of silverware, jewelry and furniture.

He was ordered held in $5000 for a hearing on Friday.

Then it was that he turned around and beckoned to Wife No. 1, the only one in court.

SEEKS TO EXPLAIN

She saw the signal but turned away coldly. So Tocherman sent over a police sergeant with a request that she get bail, so that Tocherman could "get out and explain the whole thing to you."

Acting on information furnished him in part by the district attorney and in part by his own undercover investigators, Commissioner Timilty issued one of the sternest official ultimatums of his regime.

He demanded an immediate, complete and drastic South End "house-cleaning."

According to reports and complaints in the hands of District Attorney Foley and the police commissioner, at least three vice resorts have been operating at specified South End addresses under management of notorious underworld characters.

NOT AFRAID OF RAID

These resorts, Foley and Timilty were told, have boldly flouted the law, have apparently disregarded possibility of police raids and have boasted "high up" protection.

District Attorney Foley passed along to the police commissioner a communication from an informant who went so far as to name two
